AYE, BUT ITS HOPES ARE DEAD

Sir Henry Houghton - England

Sir Henry Houghton, of England, in 1865, wrote these beautiful lines as a reply to "The Conquered Banner." The Southern people never expect to see that sacred banner unfurled except to typify the noblest deeds of the human race.

Gallant nation, foiled by numbers,
Say not that your hopes are fled;
Keep that glorious flag which slumbers,
One day to avenge your dead.
Keep it, widowed, sonless mothers,
Keep it, sisters, mourning brothers,
Furl it with an iron will;
Furl it now, but keep it still,
Think not that its work is done.
Keep it till your children take it,
Once again to hail and make it
All their sires have bled and fought for,
Bled and fought for all alone.
All done! aye, shame the story,
Millions here deplore the stain;
Shame, alas! for England's glory,
Freedom called, and called in vain.
Furl that banner, sadly, slowly,
Treat it gently, for 'tis holy,
Till that day---yes, furl it sadly,
Then once more unfurl it gladly,
Conquered banner, keep it still.

A TURTLE ON A FENCE POST

If You ever see one, you'll know he didn't get there by himself.

This work has been compiled from a number of different sources. I have concentrated on first hand accounts and primary sources when available. It is my hope that this sketch will help in your research and become the basis of future in depth research into this regiment and the men who served.

If you have additional information on the men who served in this unit, or the regiment's actions, drop me a note at JRigdon@researchonline.net. I will incorporate them into future editions.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

[This brief history of Company K, 30th Georgia is based on an historical sketch by Kelly Madaris descendant of Jackson Madaris, Pvt. Company K, "Chattahoochee Volunteers" 30th Georgia Volunteer Infantry, CSA. and excerpts from Confederate Military History Volume 6, Chapter 2]

The Georgia 30th Infantry Regiment was assembled at Milledgeville, Georgia, in the fall of 1861.

In September 1861, Georgia Congressman David J. Bailey established Camp Bailey with the permission of Governor Joseph E. Brown. Camp Bailey was located between Fairburn and Palmetto, Georgia along the railroad track. The actual location of this site is not known today, but is believed to be under the Owens Corning Plant. Bailey recruited men of Campbell and Carroll Counties along the Chattahoochee River for the Confederacy. This company became known as Company K, the "Chattahoochee Volunteers".

Company K was joined at Camp Bailey by ten other Companies that were organized from Butts, Bartow, Fayette, Clayton and Chattahoochee Counties in Georgia. On December 16, 1861, the 30th Georgia moved to Griswoldsville in Jones County, Georgia. By the 23rd it was encamped just below Savannah, Georgia.

At the organization of the Thirtieth regiment Georgia volunteers the following were the field officers: Col. David J. Bailey; Lieut.-Col. Miles M. Tidwell; Maj. Cicero A. Thorpe; Commissary A. N. McLarty; Quartermaster J. C. Hightower; Adjt. J. W. McCord. The captains were John L. Barnett (A), H. Hendrick (B), J. G. Lindsey (c), Thomas C. Bartlett (D), Robert M. Hitch (E), William N. McGouirk (F), John Edmondson (G), Francis M. Harrell (H), C. A. Dollar (I), Wm. B. Richards (K).

The Thirtieth served until the spring of 1863 in the department of South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. In the spring of 1863 it had about 300 effectives. It went to Mississippi, forming the brigade of Col. C. C. Wilson which comprised the 25th, 29th, and 66th regiments, First Battalion Georgia Sharpshooters, and the Fourth Battalion Louisiana.

Company K remained on detachment until the spring of 1864 along the East Coast, therefore it was not involved in the Chickamauga or Mississippi campaigns.

The 30th traveled to North Georgia and fought in the Battle of Chickamauga in late September 1863. Colonel Thomas Woodward Mangham was wounded and permanently disabled at Chickamauga, Ga.

September 19, 1863. He retired to the Invalid Corps April 23, 1864.

Soon after Chickamauga, Col. Wilson was promoted to Brigadier General.

While enroute to Dalton, in North Georgia, to rejoin the Regiment, many of the troops jumped train in Palmetto and Fairburn, Georgia to visit their homes in Campbell County.

The Thirtieth was consolidated with the 29th Regiment. After Wilson's death due to fever at Dalton in November, 1863, the 30th was assigned to the brigade of General Stevens, of Walker's division. In December, 1863, the 29th/30th totaled 341 men and 195 arms. Gen. Steven's brigade consisted of the following units during the Atlanta Campaign:

1st Georgia Confederate Regiment--- Colonel G. A. Smith

25th Georgia Infantry Regiment

29th Georgia Infantry Regiment

30th Georgia Infantry Regiment

66th Georgia Infantry Regiment

1st Battalion, Georgia Sharpshooters

26th Georgia Infantry Battalion--- Major J. W. Nisbet

During this time its officers succeeding those already named were Cols. Thomas W. Mangham and James S. Boynton; Maj. J. R. Boynton and Henry Hendrick; Commissary J. C. Little. Felix L. Matthall became captain of Company A, R. J. Andrews of C, Hudson Whittaker of D, John McLeod of E, and George T. Longino of K.

Company K continued north and participated in battles at Calhoun, Ga., the Battle of New Hope Church, Kennesaw, Peachtree Creek and the Battle of Jonesboro in the Atlanta Defense. Then the 30th regiment traveled north again and fought battles in Franklin and Murfreesboro, North Carolina, Decatur and Nashville, Tennessee.

Many of the men were captured in the battles in Tennessee and were taken to Camp Chase Ohio, a Union Prison Camp. They suffered conditions comparable to what the Union soldiers experienced in Andersonville, Georgia. Many starved to death and many were lost to disease and exposure in the extreme cold of the North. Those who exchanged this harsh prison life for signing allegiance to the US were placed in blue uniforms and sent west to fight Indians. They were known as "Galvanized Yankee's", a term for a Confederate Gray soldier coated in Union Blue.

The loss to this regiment by both battle and disease decimated its numbers. Few of the men surrendered under General Joseph E. Johnston on April 26, 1865.

MUSTER ROLL OF COMPANY H, 30th
REGIMENT
GEORGIA VOLUNTEER INFANTRY
ARMY OF TENNESSEE
C. S. A.
FAYETTE COUNTY, GEORGIA
FAYETTE VOLUNTEERS

'This company became Co. G, upon reorganization in 1862.

This company left Camp Young near Savannah, Ga. for Wilmington, N. C. December 14, 1862, and arrived there December 19, 1862.

This company was organized in Fayette County, Ga. August 1861. Was mustered into service at Camp Bailey, near Fairburn, Ga., as State Troops and went from there to Griswoldville, Ga., from whence they were ordered to Savannah, and were in General Wilson 's Brigade. At the end of twelve months the company was reorganized. We were ordered to Wilmington, N. C., where we did coast duty, and from thence were ordered back to Savannah, Ga. In June 1863 we went to west Mississippi and were in all the skirmishes around Jackson. From there we went to Chattanooga, Tenn. We engaged in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga. September 19-23, 1863, and in the campaign back to Chattanooga and Missionary Ridge. Went into winter quarters at Dalton, Ga. When we left Dalton we were under fire of the enemy practically all of the time day and night. Were in battles from Dalton to Lovejoy Station, Hightower River, Resaca, Calhoun, Pine Mountain, Kennesaw Mountain, Peachtree Creek, Atlanta, and Jonesboro We went from Jonesboro to Dalton, had a little skirmish with the with the enemy, then crossed the Tennessee River and went to Franklin, Tenn., where we engaged in battle, then went to Nashville, where practically all of the company was captured. (signed) Elias Adams, 2d Lieut., Co. H. 30th Regiment Ga. Inf.
